

EOLE Education - Providing workforce education and training that aligns with the NSQHS Standards

Our free online modules will give your workforce more knowledge and increased confidence in the delivery of quality end-of-life care

End-of-Life Essentials (EOLE) is funded by the Australian Government Department of Health and Aged Care. EOLE education aligns with the National Safety and Quality Health Service (NSQHS) Standards.

The education modules can be completed in your own time and at your own pace. Clinically relevant and evidence-based, they contain tips, advice and educational videos showing scenarios that health professionals may face.
